Who: Amy Goodman - Investigative Reporter, American Broadcast

be given as well: to WNYPC founder(s) Ken Sherman and Riverside Salem; and Jack Kanack, Talking Peace wWNYPC Producer on WBNY.

Amy Goodman is a prominent and respected American Broadcast journalist, a syndicated columnist, investigative reporter and an author of six books including the New York Times bestseller Standing up to the Madness: Ordinary Heroes in Extraordinary Times. Amy is the executive producer and host of the popular, daily, independent radio, internet and television news program named Democracy Now! She'll speak on "Covering The Movements Changing America." Ms. Goodman's reporting at Standing Rock was stellar (and resulted in her arrest there).

What: The WNY Peace Center (WNYPC) 50th Annual Dinner Celebration recognizes the WNYPC's 50 years of community service and movement building for Peace Through Justice At Home And Abroad. The WNYPC was created in 1967 as part of Dr. King's Clergy and Laity Against the War.

Silent Auction, Basket Raffle, and live Music (from Saxman Slim before, and Ismail & Co. after) will round out the evening.

When and Where: Friday, November 3; 5pm-9pm; Buffalo Niagara Convention Center.

Why: We are at a critical juncture for People and the Planet. Building a Culture of Justice and Peace is more needed now than ever before. Through its 9 taskforces and comprehensive collaboration, the WNYPC specializes in "connecting the dots" - the issues are all connected; and movement-building will be the key to making real progress. The WNYPC and Amy Goodman will celebrate the work done, the progress made, and the work yet to be done.
